

173

“SPOT”

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

A

11 132
33

“SPOT”

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

ILLUSTRATED BY CECIL ALDIN.

x+ 5853

LONDON
HOULSTON AND SONS
PATERNOSTER SQUARE.
1894.

“I hope to see back of my surroundings.”—Page 21.

A

A

DEDICATION.

I HEREBY RESPECTFULLY DEDICATE

THIS LITTLE BOOK

TO ALL PERSONS OF EVERY CONDITION

WHO OWN DOGS,

OR WHO, NOT BEING FORTUNATE ENOUGH TO POSSESS,

LOVE THEM.

THE EDITOR.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
DEDICATION	vii
INTRODUCTION	13
BARK THE FIRST.
I go into Society—Lose my Balance, and gain a Friend . . .	19
BARK THE SECOND.
I thirst for Knowledge—My Teachers, and what they taught me	37
BARK THE THIRD.
Family Matters—An Unsuitable Suit—Calamities of Authors .	57
BARK THE FOURTH.
A Missing Link—Honour and Arms—Law and the Lady . . .	73
BARK THE FIFTH.
A Polemical Dispute—Beauty and the Beast—I go for the Beast's legs	96
BARK THE SIXTH.
Wisdom of the Egyptians—Cross Purposes—A Rejected Appeal	110
BARK THE SEVENTH.
I visit the Metropolis—The Humours of Dog-Fair—I lose my Heart	125

CONTENTS.

BARK THE EIGHTH.

Foreign Competition—A Money Transaction—I go to live in a Flat	PAGE 146
---	-------------

BARK THE NINTH.

Life in London—Women's Ways—From Bad to Worse . . .	159
---	-----

BARK THE TENTH.

In the jaws of Death—A Ministering Angel—I fly by Night .	181
---	-----

BARK THE ELEVENTH.

The Prodigal's Return—Breaking and Mending—High Jinks .	196
---	-----

BARK THE TWELFTH, AND LAST.

Marriage Bells and Scotch Bagpipes—I make my Bow (Wow) and Exit	222
--	-----

ILLUSTRATIONS.

	PAGE
"I began gravely to take stock of my surroundings"	Frontispiece
"Oh! if you call that barking, I've no more to say"	27
"I had to run for my life"	39
"I laid the whole matter before Scrunch"	65
"Pinned him by the foreleg"	83
"And what may latitudinarian be?"	101
"'No! No!' said the man: 'if you want any more, you'll have to come for it'"	129
"A curious-looking foreign dog"	137
"Never before, or since, have I found myself in such a strange, mixed, company"	141
"A melancholy troop we must have looked"	167
"Away I sped—slinking close to the side walls"	191
"I knocked over a china jar"	209
"Fronting me, in a glass case, stood Scrunch"	223