RACE PREJUDICE,

By JEAN FINOT.

Translated by F. WADE-EVANS.

Demy 8vo. 10s. 6d. net.

By an investigation primarily scientific and wholly disinterested, M. Finot tries to decide the following problems: Are men divided by race into clearly-marked groups of varying origin? Are some races destined to take an inferior or servile position through the ages? Is it race or environment or milieu and a common history and experience which constitutes national distinctions?

THE SOULS OF BLACK FOLK,

By W. E. DUBOIS.

Crown 8vo. 5s. net.

The author deals in an able manner with the wrongs, the ambitions, the longings, and the despair of the negroes of the Southern States of America. The book contains many incidents of dramatic interest.
